

Welcome to the 2013-2014 season of the Microscopy Section of the N.N.H.S.

Welcome to the 2013-2014 series of lectures, visits, demonstrations and practical activities of the microscopy section. This year, from September, we are extending our sessions to include the first and third Tuesday of the month. Most meetings include a practical element, giving you a chance to learn and practice new skills and learn new techniques. Antique microscope.

Practical evenings are Informal, and within some of the meetings there will also be opportunities to vary topics and incorporate specific ideas and techniques requested by members and guests.

Don't worry if you don't have your own microscope as we always have some equipment spare for use during the meetings. Also, if you just want personal help or advice (e.g. with purchasing or setting up a microscope) we are more than willing to help.

The Microscopy Section is one of ten sections that make up the NNHS. The society has its own rooms and laboratory located near the centre of Northampton, near the Deragate & Royal Theatres. Over 250 meetings, walks and visits are held throughout the year, arranged by the different sections. (1)
